We're excited to announce that we have changed our name from Far West Fibers to Far West Recycling.

Up until the early 2000s, paper accounted for almost all of the recyclables we processed; today, however, it represents just over half of our volume.

We've diversified into many different kinds of commodities and recyclables, from metals to Styrofoam™, plastics, glass and electronics, and we want our name to reflect that evolution.

For more than 30 years, we have helped keep the neighborhoods we serve beautiful by meeting all of their recycling needs.

While our name and signage are changing, our team remains the same, and we stay committed to being Oregon's largest recycling processor and marketer.

We're proud of the last three decades and look forward to many more.
